What dreams are made of...

The windmill is a one of a kind building that transmits happiness and peace. The interior has been carefully made with a focus on keeping it's personality and charm. The stone floors are amazing and beautiful. On the top, there is an unusual glass roof called a geodesic dome pentagram, absolutely magical at night, looking at the stars.

The location is simply breathtaking. 360 degrees views over the mountains and the sea at the distance, with such peacefulness and clean fresh air that you will feel re-energized with every breath and every look.

This magical property could be the ideal base for someone with a caravan who wants it's own ground to spend some months during the year in the sun.

This is what dreams are made of, a simple luxury you can afford to invest in your personal well-being.
